

Empowering hospitalists.
Transforming patient care.

About SHM

The Society of Hospital Medicine (SHM) puts its sole focus on hospitalists by helping them advance their careers, leverage education to elevate care, and drive real change as advocates for progress and equity.

When you join SHM, not only will you gain a home, but you will become a part of a larger movement that impacts the lives of hospitalized patients through innovation and collaboration.

Visit hospitalmedicine.org/join to become a part of the hospital medicine movement.

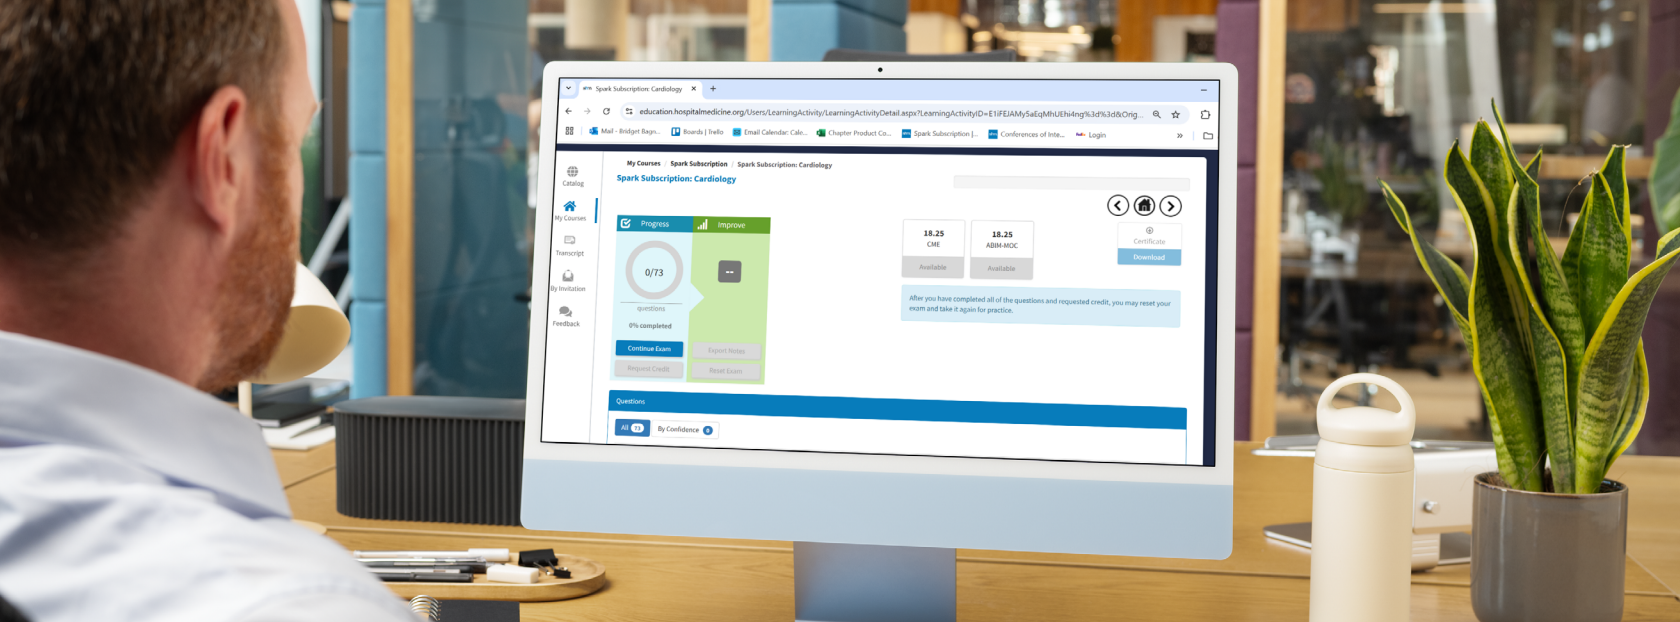

“SHM has been my professional home since 2001. As the only organization dedicated to hospitalists, it unites a rapidly growing community.

I am proud to belong to a society that helps solve some of healthcare’s most complex challenges. SHM members are sought after for leadership roles in the highest levels of the U.S. government, in medical schools, and within the C-suites of leading healthcare systems. Within our community, it is easy to find global experts in quality improvement, patient safety, perioperative medicine, anticoagulation, and medical education.

Hospital medicine is no longer a start-up. It’s an established specialty well positioned to meet tomorrow’s healthcare challenges.

Hospitalists are my professional soulmates. As President, I am incredibly proud of our members.”

- Efrén Manjarrez, MD, FACP, SFHM
SHM Board President

Build impactful connections for your future.

With SHM, every interaction has the potential for career advancement, collaboration, and educational growth.

“SHM chapters provide an experience like Converge just on a smaller scale. My chapter has given me the opportunity to really know people in my local area and have connections in other hospitals to exchange ideas.”

- Nina Dutta, MD, SFHM

Special Interest Groups

Special Interest Groups (SIGs) are member-led communities that unite hospitalists around topics of interest, practice areas, and/or care models. With more than 30 active SIGs, there is a wide and growing array of groups offering engagement for every member.

“

“Being a Senior Fellow in Hospital Medicine is a really nice way to acknowledge the work we put in and has been impactful in my career. It’s a designation that allowed me to gain expertise as well as share the expertise with others in my institution and within SHM. It has also opened doors for other opportunities.”

- Kim Tartaglia, MD, SFHM
